Last Week Before Winter Break!!!

This is the last week before school is out for Winter Break! For those of you who are trying to murder someone, now is the perfect time, because no one will know for 2 and a half weeks. If you don't find this helpful, something is ^{not} wrong with you.

Gingerbread man plans revenge

'Tis the season to be jolly. For the Gingerbread man, that is, eliminating the fox that tricked him.

One trip to his arsenal shows the countless years of preparation, as well as an AH-64 Apache Attack Helicopter, assorted RPGs, and even a Tsar Bomba.

He says the project began with a few primitive spears and clubs, and gradually evolved into the NATO treaty-breaking arsenal we see today.

With a keen eye kept on the city with his roof-mounted turret, he is waiting for the perfect moment to strike. Moreover, he claims he has recruited Santa and his reindeer to drop cluster bombs for him, while the elves work in yet another sweatshop to meet his massive weapons quota. It's a perfect example of how Christmas brings people together.

Santa Reports Improved Elf Working Conditions

The Elf Salary this year is likely down (facts are hard to determine due to Santa's censorship), with an estimated average pay of $0.02 per hour. While we were not able to speak with any of the elves due to message interception issues, we were able to use aerial reconnaissance to take photos of an elf protest. Should the elves decide to go on strike, the Christmas gift market could crash. Or Santa could use his private police force to crush all rebellion.

Obituaries

No one died this week 😢 Hopefully, it happens soon...
